NASPE Author Testimonials

“NASPE’s publications demonstrate outstanding integrity and dedication to the final product. Their high standards insure that all book and project contents are accurate, contemporary, and appropriate for today’s physical education teacher trainers and teachers.”

—Rhonda Clements, coauthor, Movement-based Learning: Academic Concepts and Physical Activity for Ages Three through Eight

“We welcomed the opportunity to work with NASPE on writing Assessing Dance in Elementary Physical Education. Our editor, reviewers, and the NASPE staff were supportive throughout the writing and publication process. We are very pleased with the publication and were thrilled to have it premier at the 2005 AAHPERD convention and highlighted on the NASPE website.”

—Theresa and Steve Cone, authors, Assessing Dance in Elementary Physical Education

“After signing a contract with NASPE to publish my book, “Physical Educators’ Guide to Successful Grant Writing,” until submission of the final manuscript I continually felt that it was my book to be presented as I wanted it. Suggestions by NASPE and the reviewers were welcome as they only served to make the book better. I had full say regarding the content of the book and how it was written, but really benefited from the staff’s expertise in designing a cover and suggesting a layout which made the book easy to read and to apply in preparing a grant proposal. Most importantly, NASPE kept me informed regarding what to expect in each phase of the publication process so that I could meet the publication deadline while feeling good about the book.”

—Lou Bowers, author, Physical Educators’ Guide to Successful Grant Writing

“As a first time author for NASPE, I found them to be wonderful to work with. Their insightful suggestions helped to strengthen the message of the book. NASPE team members played an integral part in the successful completion of the book including cover design, review, promotion, and marketing while allowing the authors’ involvement in overall decisions. I was very impressed with the incredible support, feedback, ideas, and the team approach to the final product. Any questions and thoughts were treated with respect and answered in a very timely manner. I do look forward to additional projects with NASPE.”
